Seven-year-old Roger is the son of Mrs. Bernice Madigan, Warren, and Miss Becky, age 8, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Potter, also of this city.

They were selected by a panel of judges consisting of Mrs. Pauline Behnken and Mrs. Amanda Kolteis, both of North East; W. H. Rudolph, Warren; and DeForest Peterson, of Trumbull, Conn.

Other prize winners in the contest were James Kahle, Crescent playground, for catching the largest number of fish; Dan Stimmel, War Memorial playground, the largest fish; and Lisa Dubinsky, Levittown, the smallest fish.

The Warren Field and Stream Club co-sponsors the program with the playground leaders each year, and provides the prizes and fish. Kofod Studio takes pictures of Huck and Becky and donates them to the winners.

Observations

By Bob Walsh

WE FACE A CHALLENGE

Last week we suggested that our nation might be showing signs of growing physically soft, as indicated by the increasingly difficult time we are having in our international sports relations, especially in areas of competition which require strict training. In fact, if it were not for our Negro athletes we wouldn't make much of a showing.

There are many aspects to this situation, and all of them suggest that we need to watch our stomachs, wind, and general good health. There is little doubt that we have more leisure hours and more time in which to have fun, but how do we go about making the most of it?

Baseball is a major barometer of the change taking place in this nation. The game is as good as ever, and probably the players are better than they were in the early years of the sport. This is the trend in all sports. The present lot always has the benefit of skills developed by earlier participants and they take it from there, adding new ideas.

But baseball with a much larger population from which to draw than was the case with teams of ten, twenty, thirty, and forty years ago, is slipping in attendance. Minor league ball is hanging on by its nails. Local teams need large hunks of sponsor money to keep them alive.

This is apt to happen to many other sports as we move along into the additional time for play. We have become a nation of participants, and the spectator sports are suffering from neglect.

This is good in a way, but we fear that a vast majority of us do not participate with much effort, or in a way that requires conditioning. A case of beer, a tub of ice, and a picnic spot is not a means of spending a holiday which is conducive to a thinner waist or less chin.

But this is not the entire story. The fact is we are running out of room for the many who have left the grandstands and want to do it themselves. Most communities lack the facilities for adult play. Which isn't surprising when you remember that it has been quite a battle to sell them on adequate play grounds to take the boys and girls off the streets. If community officials are blind where youth is concerned it is not surprising if they squeeze the dollar when major projects for the adults are mentioned.

Warren is a very good example. It does not have enough playground area even for the boys and girls. It fails to keep the ones it does have open for enough months. If these areas and their programs are good for the young people two months a year, they must be equally good the rest of the warm season.

Warren has eight hundred boys playing baseball. What does it have for eight hundred girls? When Warren finally gets around to building that swimming pool about which it has talked for years on years, it may be very inadequate. It probably will not be sufficiently large to accommodate both the young people and the adults, and it also will serve only those who can find time to swim on about sixty days during the summer.

Golf is a healthy exercise that takes you outdoors and makes you walk. But our golfers have only nine holes, and they belong to a country club which limits its membership so tightly that most of those on the waiting list never will be admitted.

Warren could use a public golf course and if industry is sincerely interested in providing one there are fine farms located near Warren which would economically serve that purpose. They have clear, rich land that will easily grow grass, and they have buildings which will save thousands of dollars. A large farm house can be converted into a club house, and a barn will house the expensive equipment needed to maintain a course. And in a truly public course every golfer would have an equal share.

This area is rich in land that offers a natural setting for the hunting and fishing pleasures. This will develop in a slipshod manner and we are apt to come up with a second or third-rate play area which may prove to be more of a problem than it is an asset.

We can avoid this by proper planning and with a sensible zoning program. The result will increase the value of our individual properties and the general quality of the area by attracting the best class of visitors and facilities.

We have many valleys through which flow mountain streams and a major river going through our midst. A half million acres of national forest borders all of this. It is a natural, but we hear complaints about the lack of good fishing, the size of the deer, and other words of dissatisfaction. This is not the kind of grumbling which brings the best of sportsmen back for more.

Warren is unique in its recreational problem only as it applies to the natural surroundings. Most communities lack such a background and actually this is far more than a Warren asset. It is one for the entire county to utilize to its benefit, and two-thirds of the county's population lives outside of the county seat.

If we are to be a healthy nation of participants we must provide the facilities for those who need to get off of their upholstery and reduce their occupational cushion.

 NOT RACIAL

Referring back to an early paragraph in which we said America would not be doing so well if it were not for our Negro athletes, we mention this only as proof of our contention that we are growing soft. As each race comes to this nation and climbs the economic scale it makes the most of the opportunities that are immediately available.

The ring once was filled with Irish fighters because the uneducated portion of the new arrivals found a ready mint in sports. And because of their hardy background they were in condition for physical action.

Then came such races as the Italians who in turn made the most of the sports arenas as a means of making a good living. Now we see Puerto Ricans making the most of it, and of course the Negro who has not been fully freed economically is earning big money in professional sports and is getting his education through his prowess.

But these racial examples only prove our point. As we develop economically, are assimilated into the American kettle, and do not need physical hardness to earn a living, sporting activities which require serious training lose their attraction and we drop them when the natural condition of youth leaves us.

We suspect we face this danger, but we also believe that the additional hours for pleasure are serving to draw us out into the areas of physical effort. Given the facilities and a wisely planned program this nation can enjoy a great physical advantage through the leisure which its ingenuity has made possible.

It is a challenge to us as a nation which we want to keep alive, and it also is a challenge to us as individuals who have a strong inclination to continue breathing.

BUYERS' CORNER

BEST BUYS

The monthly magazine, Consumer Reports, has an unusually interesting August issue, which we imagine you can buy at the stands, or perhaps find in your library. It covers tests made of nationally known ice cream packages; the various makes of television antennas; has a revealing chapter on the many waste-disposers you can place in your kitchen; talks about carpet sweepers; tells much about archery equipment; compares four of the small cars, including Fiat and Lark, and has an article on the new method used in artificial respiration.

The Observer

Only one disposer is rated as very good. Five are good, thirteen are fair, and six are not acceptable by Consumer Report standards.

Prospective archers can learn how to buy a good first set, including a bow, arrows, glove, and arm guard for less than $40.

Nineteen "all-channel" antennas are discussed. There also is advice concerning when you should use the various types.

The rating of nationally known ice cream packages from excellent to fair, and the reasons for these decisions, should prove fascinating to the food buyer.

You may not agree with these findings, but there is enough explanation supporting each opinion to help you make your own choice.

NEW PRODUCTS

While we are passing out kudos to other publications, if you can get hold of a July 17 issue of Printers Ink, which is an advertising business medium, you will find an entire page of new products about to be foisted on you. Some are intriguing.

The new twists include an alarm which works under your pillow, thus awaking you but not disturbing your sleeping companion. A nice gift for father when his next day comes around. (To awaken you, of course, so that you can get his breakfast while he sleeps an extra half hour undisturbed.)

Bulova is coming out with an ultra miniature transistor radio and a portable hi-fi four-speed stereo phonograph.

Swift will sell its individually packed beef burgers in places other than Los Angeles, and there will be a new battery which will permit you to change the worn-out cell instead of buying an entire unit. (Excessive claims by most major batteries also are being stopped.)

A new water purifier that is supposed to be better than chlorine is being used by the army and will be nationally distributed soon. It is Diatomic Iodine Purifier. (All anti-water-medication crusaders be warned.)

ATTRACTIVENESS LEADER

Pennsylvania is doing more than any other state to attract industry to its borders. So says Mill and Factory, the industrial magazine, which is published in New York city. The July issue carries the results of a nation-wide survey among industrial firms as to their plant location thinking, says a Department of Commerce release, and Pennsylvania is making a favorable impression.

Right behind are Georgia, Ohio, Florida, and Indiana. The three which are doing the most to discourage new industry are Michigan, New York and Massachusetts.

What does industry look for? Favorable labor relations, nearness of market, transportation, new raw materials, adequate water and power, and sane tax policies.

GAS EXPANDS

Gas not only is expanding its price to the consumer, but it also is adding many new fuel burners. It expects to spend a record $1 billion, $859 million, or close to $2 billion, in 1959 on construction.

In the next four years it will spend close to $8 billion, which is 25 per cent more than it spent in the previous four-year period. This will be done by selling bonds and debentures for 46 per cent of the money, the sale of common and preferred stocks for 21 per cent of the amount, and the other 33 per cent will come from internal sources.

That internal source is the one that bothers us. Utilities have a neat way of using this share as a major part of their cost when they present their books for a support of appeals for increased rates. Current increases being allowed by the Public Utilities Commission you can be sure will be followed by more to take care of that "internal" share.

Meanwhile, the gas industry says that its common stock shares have increased in value about 7 per cent since last year and that June dividends are 2.5 per cent higher than a year ago, with a yield of 4.31 per cent at current market prices.

They feel no pain as each month seems to represent a new record. And that sales pitch is for those who would buy the bonds and stocks needed for the other 67 per cent.

TASTIER STEAK

If you think mushrooms make your steak more tasty, imagine how sharp a job they will do with your taste glands after Pennsylvania State University gets through with its new research project. It is spending $63,000 on a mushroom research center. This will pay for the building. Equipment will be paid for by the American Mushroom Institute, consisting of over six hundred mushroom growers in this nation, who will check out $13,500.

Meanwhile, the laboratory of Dr. Leon Kneebone, director of the program, will continue in operation. This laboratory contains the world's most extensive collection of pure mushroom cultures and micro-organisms associated with mushroom production. He has about 800 specimens.

INCONSISTENT

Warren hillside residents got action on a flooding problem within a half month. It took the lowlanders more than twenty years, and they still are waiting for positive action.

The minimum price support represents 75 per cent of the estimated parity price of wheat on July 1, 1960. If the marketing quotas are not approved the support level will be 50 per cent of parity, or about $1.18 per bushel. Farmers have until 9 p.m. this evening to vote. It requires a two-thirds approval to effect the quota.

CENTENARIAN UNVEILS
PLAQUE commemorating site of Warren county's first drilled oil well. At an oil centennial dedication ceremony in Tidioute Wednesday, Ed Lutz of Evans City, Pa., was given the honor of unveiling the marker at the J. L. Grandin well site. Mr. Evans was born August
17, 1859, ten days before Colonel Drake drilled in the first successful oil well at Titusville. Until his retirement Mr. Evans was engaged in oil well drilling and producing.

The Grandin well, strangely enough, never produced a drop of oil, but is famous for its many firsts: first well to be drilled in Warren county, first "dry hole" in the oil industry, first hole to have the tools become lodged, and first well in which an explosive charge was used.

Participating in the ceremonies were Ernest C. Miller, historical consultant to Oil Centennial, Inc.;
Dr. William Cashman, president of Warren County Historical Society;
Harry Logan, Jr., chairman of oil division of Oil Centennial; J. P.
Jones, chairman of the board of Oil
Centennial and also master of ceremonies; James B. Stevenson, publisher of the Titusville Herald who substituted for Dr. S. K. Stevens, executive director, of the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum
Commission. Also present was Miss Anna Grandin, niece of the man whose initial failure was followed by many successful ventures in the oil fields.

CHARLES M. JUSTICE, 68, resident of Erie and Barnes, died Friday, July 17. Funeral services were held in St. Anthony's church, Sheffield, and interment took place in Calvary cemetery in Erie.

HAROLD RYAN, of Youngstown,
Ohio, and brother of Mrs. Merle
Wescott, 1401-1/2 Penna. ave., W.,
Warren, died Sunday, July 19, of a heart attack. Mr. Ryan was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Oliver
Ryan, and was born and raised in Warren. Survivors also include his wife and five children.

HARRY F. GUTZLER, 85, of 106
Brook st., Warren, died at Warren
General hospital Monday, July 20.
Funeral services were held Wednesday at the Peterson Funeral Home, followed by commitment in Oakland mausoleum.

FRED CAMP, of Sherman, N. Y., died Wednesday, July 15. Survivors, besides his wife Mary and

Indians Asked To Support Dam

Residents of the Seneca Nation: Because it is our belief that the interests of any nation lies, not in its past, but in its future, we want to present some facts concerning the Kinzua dam which we think will bear consideration by the members of your tribe.

We know and understand your determination to retain ownership of your lands and, as we have said in the past, are fully sympathetic to your views. Yet, the retention of your reservation lands at any cost, especially when it would deprive you of other gains which would be of great benefit to your nation in the future, is not easily understood. Seemingly, the famed judgment of the Seneca people is not being applied to this particular situation.

First, have you considered that the Seneca Nation would, in effect, control the upper half of this reservoir; a body of water that promises to be a veritable sportsman's paradise? With your licensing rights, which you now have, all of the hunting and fishing privileges on the upper reaches of this dam would be licensed by you, thus giving your government a source of considerable income annually. Only a moment's thought will convince you this licensing would be highly profitable.

A body of water as large as the proposed dam would attract great numbers of duck and geese in season and would be heavily populated by fish of many species. This alone should attract thousands of sportsmen yearly to the area, especially to the upper half of the dam where both the hunting and fishing will be the best. Then, too, because both the spring and summer pool (in the upper area) will lie entirely within the boundaries of your reservation it is reasonable to think that you could collect license fees from all pleasure boats entering the reservoir at your docks.

The income from these sources, along with the employment these activities would furnish your residents, would boost the economy of the lower reservation and should more than compensate for the few families which would have to move to higher ground.

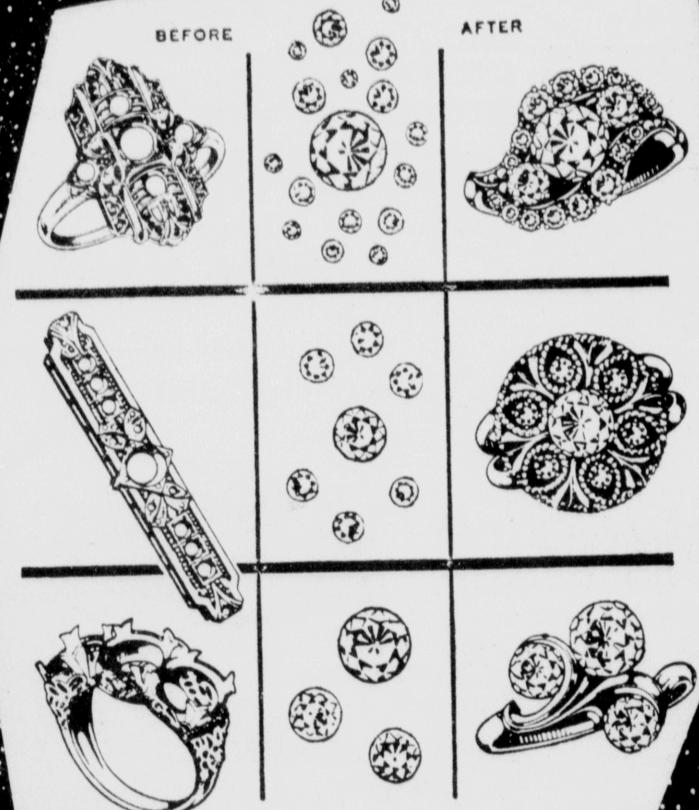

Further than this, there is another profitable aspect of the Kinzua dam which you should carefully consider. With a modern highway (which is a part of the Kinzua project) running completely around the impoundment it is natural that thousands upon thousands of sightseers and tourists will travel this road, and as twenty to twenty-five miles of it will lie within the boundaries of your reservation the profit-potential of doing business with these travelers is obvious.

And going a bit further, the easement land, some 5000 acres of your land which would only occasionally be flooded, although not suitable for residential purposes, could be developed into forested plots that would increase in value with each passing year and should eventually be of considerable economic importance. This, while you are collecting easement payments from the U. S. Government. In fact, there are many facets of this proposed encroachment on your lands that can, with proper planning, be developed into assets which will be beneficial to all future generations of Senecas.

As it is now, you have spe considerable sums -- enough to furnish a higher education to many worthy Seneca scholars -- without gaining your objective. It is possible that you could spend much more without getting any concrete results. Therefore, we think you would do well to re-consider your attitude towards the Kinzua dam, for even if you eventually can be successful in retaining your lands as they are today, it will be an empty victory. You will have your lands, but little else. On the other hand, some unbiased thinking will convince you that the Kinzua dam will be a good thing for the Seneca Nation; that it would revitalize your sagging economy and thereby assure the future of your people and your nation.

We make these suggestions as your friend and neighbor -- we ask that you accept them as such.

Our own interest in this controversial project stems from the simplest of human instincts -- self preservation. We have been ravished by floods from the Allegheny river to the point where they have scoured our homes, crippled our industries, and, at times, endangered the lives of our citizens. Millions of dollars have been lost in the flood-swept portions of our town at almost regular intervals and we have had to, on one occasion, remove the patients from our hospital in rowboats.

With the construction of the Kinzua dam we will get relief from these periodic harassments. The project has been on the legislative books for more than twenty years now and during that time has withstood both the test of time and the assaults of its enemies and is today the only project fully acceptable to Congress and the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers. Therefore, we are throwing our full support -- even fighting -- towards an immediate start on its construction. It will take ten years, we are convinced, to build this dam and during that time we will be completely at the mercy of the Allegheny river so far as floods are concerned. It is our homes -- our industries -- our businesses -- even our lives, perhaps, that we are fighting for. We hope you can understand our position on this matter which is so vital to us at this time.

Television and Radio

By John Crosby

WHAT TV IS FOR

Janet Blair singing "It's Nice to Go Travelling" more or less set the theme for Sunday television. There was an awful lot of it going on and it's fine with me. The Chevrolet commercials on the same show, for instance, showed a Chevy on tape wandering through Paris down the Left Bank, through the Place de la Concorde, and down side streets where flower-vendors poked their heads through the window. And in color, yet!

As someone remarked, it's getting awfully hard for the show to follow the commercials. The Chevy commercial -- a car wandering around without a driver -- has been used before and, as commercials go, it's one of the best. Perhaps it's just wishful thinking, but it does seem to me that an era of candor in advertising is abroad in TV.

In my naive way, I had always thought that a product ought to advertise its primary virtue. For instance, a soap's prime function is to get you clean and I thought they ought to advertise that. But no. Soap ads continued to boast the soap would make you ten years younger or it'd get a girl for you or stop body odors or anything except get you clean. But now these Mr. Clean commercials come along. Not only does the name of the thing salute cleanliness but the whole body of the commercial is a paean to cleanliness -- a virtue which was never even considered in the old soap ads.

Similarly, a car's chief purpose in life (I thought) was to get you around. But you'd never guess it from the ads. You bought a car for the torsion-free hydraflugs. Or maybe you were entranced by the dynaflow with the automatic thrust. Or splitaction forward look. But now Chevy emphasizes the car will get you there. If you're in Paris, you can see the town in your car. And a cleaner advertises that it'll clean your house and everything in it.

This has the simplicity of great sophistication. It won't last, of course, but while it does, I applaud it. Maybe we can even look forward to the day when a watch will be advertised not because it's embraceable or because it can swim underwater like a fish or because distinguished people wear it but simply because it tells time.

To get back to the travel theme, the Ed Sullivan show was a taped tidbit from Spoleto, Italy, featuring Gian Carlo Menotti's Festival of Two Worlds. To my great regret, I didn't see all of it. What I did see was wonderful. There was Nora Kaye in an excerpt from the "Romeo and Juliet" ballet. There was a marvelous bit of choreography by the John Butler dancers and a bit of opera from Eileen Farrell. All these things were done against the settings of ancient ruins and the picture quality in natural sunlight was unbelievably good. This is where tape has film lashed to the mast.

Also, to get as simple-minded as I dare, I get an old fashioned kick out of seeing Roman ruins as a backdrop for some good looking dancers, a kick I wouldn't get on a CBS stage from New York. Sullivan has been to Alaska, Brussels, Portugal, and Ireland, and the Sullivan show will come from Moscow, Japan, South America, and Mexico, some time in the future. They haven't always been marvelous shows but they are invariably interesting ones. This is what television is for, I keep thinking, and we can't get too much of it.

In the papers today, I see an ad in which CBS boasts about its TV coverage of the Olympics next year. "The CBS Television network has just completed negotiations with the Italian Olympic National committee for the exclusive North American rights to broadcast the full coverage of the Olympics. The games will last eighteen days and each night in a kind of modern day marathon, the network will bring you, via video tape and jet airplane, the events that took place earlier that day 4,281 miles away."

But along with North Americans, millions of Europeans and Russians and Scandinavians will be watching the games, too, and I can't help but think this is international relations at its best. Sunday we had the top Russian athletes televised from Philadelphia; next year the world will see our athletes and the Russians at Rome. "You'll see," the ad tells us, "the Pentathlon events in the Stadium of the Marbles. And you'll see some pretty spectacular pictures of the Eternal City with the Seven Hills, and the winding Tiber, and the Ponte Palatino, that famous bridge where Horatio stood."

That's one way to ease international tensions just a little bit and I think a good one.

THAT LOVER AGAIN

There has been so much discussion of the book "Lady Chatterley's Lover" and the efforts to censor it and the movie made from it, that you might be interested in what the official release of the Post Office Department has to say. Here it is:

During the month of June, 1959, the Postmaster General issued a Departmental Decision against the following:

GROVE PRESS, INC. at New York, N. Y., and READERS' SUBSCRIPTION, INC., at New York, N. Y.:

The Postmaster General noted that the unexpurgated edition of "Lady Chatterley's Lover", barred from the United States mails since 1928, had been presented for mailing by Grove Press, publishers of the first American unexpurgated version and advertisements for the book had been circulated by Readers' Subscription, Inc.

In finding that the book is obscene and non-mailable and also finding that the circulars giving information where the book may be obtained, are non-mailable, the Postmaster General stated that contemporary community standards are not such that this book should be allowed to be transmitted in the mails.

Any literary merit the book may have, Mr. Summerfield wrote, is far outweighed by the pornographic and smutty passages and words, so that the book, taken as a whole, is an obscene and filthy work. Therefore, the Postmaster General could see no need to modify or reverse the prior rulings - going back over 30 years - of the Post Office Department and the Department of the Treasury with respect to this edition of "Lady Chatterley's Lover."

SOME ARE MISSED

All this excitement about a lady who wanted to marry her husband's employee for what seem very good reasons to us, makes us wonder about the long lists of books which you can buy from the leading book stores by mail any day of the week. We have one such list before us which gives the names and prices of over three hundred books for sale by one New York shop. On the front page are over fifty books, all dealing with sex, marriage, and love.

The list includes such titles as "My Life and Loves in Greenwich Village", "Is Sex Necessary", or why you feel the way you do, as discussed by James Thurber, "The Adequate Male", "The Male Hormone", "How Paris Amuses Itself", and on through fifty-one more volumes of similar trend.

The prices range from $1.25 for Thurber's opinion to $10.50 for "The Sexual, Marital, and Family Relationships of the English Woman", by Dr. Eustace Chesson, with collaborators, it says there on the bargain bulletin.

SHUTTING OUT THE SKIES

This is the time of year when mothers are torn. Sonny is off for camp, which is somewhat of a relief, but will he survive? Nothing daddy says about how he got through several such sessions plus a bit of war is sufficient to allay all the fears.

Well, if daddy made it, lady, sonny should come through so softened up that his own room will seem like a fox hole. No one goes camping anymore. They go lodging. And the next thing we expect to see will be lodges mothers . . . or has that already happened? It's hard to keep up with this softening progress.

We heard the radio asking for luggage to help get some of the boys to one camp. We could have helped real campers with a foot locker or barracks bag, but that luggage emergency had a resort flavor that hustled us back into our pup tent.

Apparently no one goes camping these days. It seems a little silly to sleep on the ground, cook over an outdoor fire, and dig slit trenches when you can have it all and heaven too. They just pack up their bed-room, or a major share of it, and move to the lodge.

Kids, you haven't lived until you have built a cozy fire in a way that will keep you warm all night, and have made a bed on the ground that will let you sleep in comfort and in safety, and have lain there with the stars dancing through the tall trees, while the birds and animals make night noises that give the initiated a story of what is transpiring out there in the darkness, you haven't camped.

The truth is you can't blame the youngsters. The modern camp is not built for them. It is built for the leaders, and it also reassures the parents who enjoy a quiet home in a reasonably fair state of mental peace.

We recently were reminded of a camp we once attended where we spent the night on Yukon packs. These are made to fit your back so that blankets, extra clothing, and accessories are easily carried. At night they keep you off the ground with openings for hips and other protruding parts.

For that bit of camping, in what then was the largest or the second largest Scout camp in the world, we came home with a belt that was inscribed with colored art, each symbol representing some skill learned on the paths of the backwoods.

This was aroused from our subconscious memory while attending a cocktail party. Passing before us was one of the latest dinner jackets, and at first we thought it must be the old chief himself from good old camp Kia-something-or-other. That jacket had more tracks on it than swamp snow after a warm night. This guy had symbols aboard his coat of many colors that indicated he not only could follow a trail but he must have been the trail itself.

At least it was attractive and jarred loose memories of cold nights, stony beaches, breakfasts of Karo syrup, hot chocolate, and burned toast. And a guy with an axe who could knock over a rabbit at full gallop ten healthy paces away.

But camps move along, and so does war. The next one they will fight with buttons, and they will take their luggage along. Perhaps even mother.

SOMETHING NEW IN TV

Delivery of the first battery-powered portable Philco TV receiver sold in northwestern Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio was recently made to a Titusville dealer. The world's first battery-powered transistor set also operates on AC power, weighs 15 pounds with batteries and has a 14-inch screen. The small self-contained antenna brings in a picture where WICU Erie is received. Don't rush to Titusville, folks, all available sets have been sold.

Another innovation is announcement of the manufacture of a "programmer", a gadget that lets the viewer select the TV shows he wants to see over a twelve-hour period. During that time, the set turns itself off and on, changes channels. Another manufacturer is bringing out an automatic timer that shuts the set off at the end of a program.

Favorite programs may be recorded and watched at leisure by a new method which stores both sound and picture on magnetic tape.

Video engineers are still trying to design a flat screen which can be hung on the wall like a picture.

WGR RELOCATING ANTENNA

WGR-TV started work July 8 on the change-over of its antenna to a new tower on Elmwood Avenue in Buffalo. During construction period, a temporary antenna and auxiliary transmitter are being used with reduced power, which may be causing some signal difficulties in outlying areas.

Target date for complete change-over to the new permanent six-bay antenna at the top of the new 742-foot tower and full 100 KW power is August 1, 1959.

AUGUST PROGRAMS

CATHOLIC HOUR will present four dramatic readings specially designed for television on the NBC network August 2, 9, 16 and 23. WICU has scheduled the series which will be seen at 5:30 p. m. on Sundays. Titles, in the order which they are to appear, are "The Confessions of St. Augustine"; "The Trial"; "With Crooked Lines"; and "Prouheze in Hell and Heaven."

BACK TO SCHOOL is an NBC News report scheduled for prime evening time on Tuesday, August 25, 8-9 p. m. This is a cross country survey of problems currently facing the nation's schools. The survey will include: reports on what various communities are doing to combat local difficulties on the education scene; changes in curriculum; teacher shortages; overcrowding and integration; experiments and advances in teaching techniques.

NEXT FALL

TIGHTROPE is a new undercover detective series scheduled by CBS for debut Tuesday, Sept. 1 at 9 p. m. Mike Connors will star.

HIGH ROAD a new ABC series, starts Friday, Sept. 18, at 6:30 p. m., replacing Bold Journey. WJAC will also carry this program. The show is a world-circling adventure series produced in conjunction with author John Gunther. Top stars and outstanding personalities will appear in such presentations as "Inside Cuba", "The High Road of Jazz", and "Inside Japan". The initial feature, as presently planned, will deal with America's entry into the space era.

TOP RECORDING ARTISTS of 1959 will be honored by the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences in an awards ceremony on the NBC network Sunday, Nov. 29, 8-9 p. m. Patterned after the movies' "Oscar" awards and television's "Emmy" awards, selection will be made by secret ballot for the best male and female vocal performances, best song, best album, best jazz performance, best comedy performance, best solo classical vocal performance, best original cast show album, best motion picture sound track album and best new performer of the year.

PEOPLE KILL PEOPLE SOME-TIMES will be the premiere presentation on NBC's new "Sunday Showcase". The program will debut Sept. 20, 8-9 p. m. The opener, an original script for TV by S. Lee Pogostin, is a drama of personal tragedy in the lives of a husband and wife.

OMNIBUS has not found a sponsor yet and very likely will be missing from the fall schedule. A possible replacement is being considered by NBC, a golf show on alternate Sunday afternoons from 4:30 to 5:30, produced by Screen Gems in cooperation with the PGA.

TWO MINDS — ONE IDEA

CBS and NBC seem to be embarked on parallel thought for the season ahead. Both are preparing 90-minute shows titled "The Fabulous Fifties". NBC will present its version as a musical review on the Ford series Nov. 6, while CBS will bring its brain-child out sometime in January. (For variety, we suggest one or the other networks might slightly modify its title, i.e., "Phabulous Phifties" or "Fenominal Fifties").

Coincidentally, both CBS and NBC are planning two different versions of Stephen Vincent Benet's "The Devil and Daniel Webster." NBC's presentation will be a straight drama on "Sunday Showcase", Feb. 18, 8-9 p. m. CBS is preparing a musical version to be presented on Playhouse 90.

NAMES MAKE TV NEWS

CHAMPAGNE LADY, Alice Lon of Lawrence Welk's ABC show, has resigned from the program because she says the polka-playing band is no longer the happy family it used to be. The rift is said to be over selection of songs. Miss Lon and Welk apparently not able to agree on certain numbers.

TOM TULLY is retiring from his role as Inspector Matt Greb on "The Lineup", now seen Friday nights on CBS. Warner Anderson, as Lt. Ben Guthrie will remain on the show next season when the program will be expanded to one hour. Tully will appear occasionally as a guest and a new team of officers will be selected for the show.

VICE PRESIDENT RICHARD NIXON left Wednesday for Moscow and has agreed to make a half-hour telecast for NBC when he returns, giving a report of his trip.

FRED ASTAIRE will have another "Evening" on Wednesday, Nov. 4, 9-10 p. m., for NBC. This is to be a completely new show and guest stars will be announced later. His "evening" last season netted him fourteen TV awards.

HARRY S. TRUMAN is reported to have made an agreement with Jack Benny to appear as a guest star on the comedian's television show next fall. Last year, Benny fiddled at a Kansas City concert arranged by Mr. Truman and this may be a case in reciprocity.

INGRID BERGMAN will star in an adaptation of Costen's "Return of the Screw" on the Ford series next season and

JAMES STEWART will appear in a Ford series western comedy, "Cindy's Fella."

LAUREN BACALL and Margaret Mead will be hostess and consultant, respectively, when CBS brings the second in its series "Woman", scheduled for Sept. 17, 2-3 p. m. This will be a study in whether American women are losing their femininity. "Teenage Marriage" was the first in the series, presented last May. Studies in Broken Marriages and Old Age are being readied for November and December.

DIAL SPINNERS
Friday

REV. BILLY GRAHAM will be one of the guests seen on "The Jack Paar Show". Others will be author Jim Bishop, comedian Charles Dornan, Cliff Arquette and singer Margaret Tyres.

Saturday

ACHING JOINTS? Then you will want to sit in on the University of Buffalo Medical Round Table discussion of "Advances in the Treatment of Arthritis" at 7 p. m. on WBEN. Participants will be Drs. Lockie, Robins, Riordan and Aaron, of the Buffalo area.

Sunday

DREW PEARSON, top newsman, is set to debut in "New Horizons", a public service series devoted to the saga of American progress and achievement. The first program in this new series on WKBW at 2:20 p. m. will feature the world tour of the famed Harlem Globetrotters and an interview with their manager, Abe Saperstein.

OPERATION INLAND SEAS will be a special 45-minute presentation direct from the decks of the USS Macon anchored off Buffalo in Lake Erie. Viewers will have a rare visit aboard one of the most powerful U. S. fighting arms, the Macon being the only cruiser of the Atlantic fleet capable of launching the Regulus I missile. There will also be deck drills, a mock alert, an air-sea rescue by ship's helicopter. All this at 12:30 on WBEN.

CONQUEST presents "Project Man High", an exclusive filmed documentary of Air Force Maj. David Simons' historic and record-breaking 1957 balloon ascent twenty miles above the earth. WBEN at 6 p. m.

20TH CENTURY brings part one of "The Face of Crime", a journey into the strange and mystical workings of the criminal mind, with actual criminals telling their stories. It is narrated on WBEN at 6:30 p. m. by Walter Cronkite and Austin E. MacCormick, professor of criminology at the University of California.

OPERATION NOAH'S ARK will be presented on NBC's "Chet Huntley Reporting" at 6:30 p. m. This is a colorful and exciting story of the rescue of antelopes, rhinos, elephants and other African game threatened by the rising floodwaters of the Zambesi River.

STATE'S LONGEST SINGLE SPAN CABLE SUSPENDED ABOVE ALLEGHENY RIVER

By Lenore McIntyre

Do people talk more today or are there just more people to talk? With the population exploding all around us, telephone companies are constantly expanding and increasing their services to meet consumer demand which grows in proportion to rising census figures.

Just last week, the Bell Telephone Company completed an expansion service near Tidioute which added twenty-three circuits to the previous three. This in itself is not an unusual situation since such additions are continually being made.

What makes the Tidioute project unique is that the circuits are incorporated in the longest single span cable in the state. Add to this the fact that the thirteen-hundred foot cable is suspended across the Allegheny River and you have an engineering feat a little more complicated than the every day run-of-the-mill wire-stringing.

This particular problem was worked out on paper by engineer Jack Skinner, of Warren, and executed by line foremen Denny Bonace, of Warren, and R. L. Himes, of Bradford. Carrying out orders on land, in the water and in the air were crew members Luther Whitaker, Dick Morrison, Conrad Dehn, David Beal, J. C. Christy, Ted Reed, Frank Ebach, Malcolm Andrews and Elmer Roth. Together, they put in about 170 hours on the $3000 project.

Drafting the blueprints was but one of the preliminary steps. Permission to proceed with construction had to be obtained from the Pennsylvania Department of Highways, the Department of Forests and Waters, the Army Engineers, the Pennsylvania Railroad and others.

On the north and south banks of the Allegheny, supporting three-pole structures were erected. Then the catenary, or carrier cable, was suspended from these two points. On this swaying platform, high above the river, the buggies of crewmen shuttled back and forth as the job of stringing cable and messenger circuit was carried out.

Seven hangers, placed at intervals of about 162 feet, and varying in length from three and one-half feet in the center to thirteen and one-half feet at the ends, were suspended from the catenary to support the messenger circuit and cable. The latter were securely fastened together by a "lapping" machine, a contrivance which travels along the wire revolving rapidly and binding the two strands together.

Teamwork is an important factor in any construction operation and was most evident in this particular project. Foremen directed operations from either side of the river via binoculars and a walkie-talkie system; signals and orders were given, received and executed without a hitch; each crewman had his particular job to do and did it well so that each piece of the jig-saw puzzle fell neatly into place.

Important, too, was the spirit of camaraderie prevailing among the workers. There were mutual respect and cooperation underscored by friendship and good humor. Jokes and pranks and good-natured ribbing provided a congenial atmosphere but "goofing-off" and endangering horse-play were noticeably absent. After all, the safety of each worker was vitally dependent on the rest of the crew, as well as the successful completion of the project.

ACROSS THE ALLEGHENY, near Tidioute, the Bell Telephone Company has suspended a 1300-foot single span messenger cable, the longest construction of its kind in the state. The catenary cable has been suspended between supporting structures at north and south points along the river and crewmen are making preparations for stringing the messenger circuit.

SECOND SECTION of cable is being lashed together as project nears completion. Crewmen are busy in the air and in the water. As an added precaution Bob Schwab, of Tidoute, was engaged to patrol the river beneath the river in his outboard motor boat. Though golfers usually are happy when they get a bird, this was not so recently on the Conewango Valley Country Club course when one of the hawks which have become regular fixtures at the course was so badly injured that he was put out of his misery. THIRD TIME WINNER

Lyle Russell, Kane, was heading the pack when the checkered flag was dropped after 44 laps in the 50-lap Mid-Season Championship Race at Stateline Speedway Saturday night before over 4,000 spectators. An over-wet track caused officials to stop the race six rounds short of the finish.

Following the Kane driver as he registered his third win of the season at the Busti, N.Y., oval were Squirt Johns, Brockway; Bill Layfield, Wellsville; Eb Young, Titusville; and Jim Patrick, Wellsville.

Warren's Bud Garner placed second in both the second heat and second semi race. Jim Scott, of Grand Valley, was third in the first semi and a third Warren Countian, Youngsville's Herb Gustafson, was third in the first heat.

Emory Mahan, Warren, spun out on the 20th lap of the feature race. The same pile-up sent Leon Lindstrom, North East, to a Jamestown hospital overnight.

Races at Stateline start at 8:30 o'clock every Saturday night.

ON TITLE DOORSTEP

The Kinzua baseball combination moved a step closer their third Chautauqua Baseball Association championship Sunday by downing the Jamestown Merchants 7 to 2. The Warren County representatives now have a season record of 10-1. Oneville is the nearest contender with 7-4, while Busti and Kennedy Grill each stand with six wins and five losses.

It was Ed "Wink" Rickerson who stood in the limelight of the Kinzua victory. The big boy from Warren fanned 12 men while going on the mound in the extra-inning contest and topped his day with a grand slam homer in the final 11th frame. In the same inning Dick Koebley connected for a two-run double. Wink also allowed only four safeties to the Jamestown club.

Other results Sunday were Green Bros. 5, Busti 3; Kennedy Grill 7, Cherry Creek 5.

Next Sunday it will be Kennedy at Kinzua and Sugar Grove at Green

ROCKETS BEAT ONOVILLE

Ken Thompson pitched 8-hit ball and John Castagnino batted three for five with a pair of doubles included as the Warren Rockets tripped Onoville 11 to 3 on the State Hospital diamond in an independent baseball contest Saturday.

KNIGHTS DROP MOOSE

Sluggers of the Betts Black Knights ball club romped to a 6-3 win over the strong Jamestown Moose in an afternoon contest on the West Side diamond Saturday. Tom LeTrent, batting a perfect two for two, helped with a homer, and Rico Bonavita connected for a pair of doubles in three trips.

John Berdine pitched, allowing six hits over the route.

SOLAR SHUT OUT

Solar Electric lost a close 1-0 decision to the New Castle Future AC team in a week-end softball tilt that saw winning hurler Clark Miller just miss a perfect game. The New Castle moundsman allowed one walk for his lone mistake.

Losing pitcher Zeke Zelasko had a nice four-hitter for the Warren team.

ALL-STAR GAMES PLANNED

Discussion at a recent Kiwanis Club special projects group meeting indicated that this year four Hot Stove League All-Star games would be played rather than championship playoffs in the Warren club's annual Hot Stove Ball Games project.

The date for this is Saturday, August 15, with all play to be staged on War Memorial Field. A parade will open the days festivities.

The hottest item now is the ticket sale which opened yesterday under the chairmanship of Cliff Terry. There is only one ticket for both adults and youngsters this year, that in the $1 donation class.

The ten highest ticket sellers will be taken to Pittsburgh by bus on August 23 for a double-header between the Pirates and Los Angeles. The Kiwanis club will foot the bill. Next ten highest sellers will be given season passes for all home games of the Warren high football team. Ticket sellers must be a registered member of either the borough or county Hot Stove League or a son of an active Kiwanis member in the Warren club.

Winners in the sale will be announced the afternoon of the games. Therefore the chairman should have all sales in his hand by 12 noon Wednesday, August 12.

AreaSports*BACK IN CELLAR

Dunkirk's 11-6 upset victory over Jamestown Art Metal and the Warren Rockets' 9-3 loss to the same Jimtown nine has placed the locals back in the cellar of the Inter-City Baseball League.

The high flying Jamestown Merchants hold a one and a half game lead with a 10-3 record, Art Metal is second with 8-4, Dunkirk stands at 9, and Warren, 4-10.

The Rockets played Art Metal last Thursday with the only bright star being they pulled the first triple play of the season in the circuit (Castagnino to Cummings to Mancuso).

Bob Winterburn pitched a seven-hitter against Warren and also clouted a pair of doubles while collecting three hits. Kelly McCool was the losing hurler.

CITY SOFTBALL

Monday night play in the Warren City Softball loop had Soda Mineral rallying with six runs in the sixth inning to edge past Jones Chevrolet 12 to 11. For the winners Bob Harrison pitched and Bill Brown slammed a two-run homer. The losers' Haser collected a grand slam homer, Johnson was on the mound.

In a second tilt Berdine was on the hill while Betts Machine tripped the 400 Block contingent 12 to 5. Ricker-son smacked a four-bagger for the winners, Kane did the same for the losers. Winning pitcher, Berdine; loser, Sturdevant.

Last week Betts defeated Soda Mineral 13 to 4 with John Berdine and Ken Sorenson sharing a four-hit performance. For the victors at the plate it was Cummings with a triple while hitting three times in five trips and Hud Berdine with a couple doubles.

The Youngsville Archery Club is staging an Invitational Shoot Sunday, August 2nd, on the York Hill Range. All area archers are welcome and are reminded registration will be from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m.

Targets will include 28 field, 14 hunters, and 14 big game.

Refreshments will be available for the all-day event.

 CLASSES END

A Red Cross activity -- the Beginners' Swimming Class -- came to a successful conclusion last week, when a four weeks' course which included instruction two nights per week for a total of ten hours terminated.

Paul Steinkamp, life saving and water safety chairman, headed the training program held at Chapman Dam with a total of 134 pupils taking lessons. Thirty-nine passed the beginners' tests while thirty-five children under six years of age received special instruction.

Chairman Steinkamp was assisted by a staff of fifteen volunteer instructors, who did an outstanding job and deserve much credit for the success of the effort, which will be made an annual event on the Red Cross calendar. The cooperation of Charles Merroth, state forester, also was a big contributing factor.

 TRI-COUNTY LEAGUE

Shamburg is leading the Tri-County league with three victories in the second half. Tidioute is in second place with two victories to one loss, and Titusville is game and a half behind Tidioute. Buells Corners is in fourth place and Chapmanville is in the cellar. Grand Valley is not playing the second half.

In league play this past week Shamburg beat the Tidioute Hawks, 14 to 7, and on Sunday the Hawks beat Titusville, 5 to 2.

In non-league games Tidioute defeated Spring Creek, 17 to 6, and League play this week will see Tidioute at Buells this evening and at Shamburg Tuesday.

TV CORRECTION

Wednesday night, August 12th, is the new date for the return light heavyweight title bout between champion Archie Moore and Yvon Durelle. The 15-round contest will be televised at 10 p.m. over WKBW on the date listed above, and contrary to the listing in the Sport Tips on TV column elsewhere in this edition.

HOT STOVE RESULTS

In County Midget League action it was a three-hitter tossed by Dahlgren as Tiona Lumber downed Barretts Garage 5-1.

Akeley Merchants of the Cadet circuit defeated Russell Merchants 17-9 with Tarr on the mound. In the same league McMillen Lumber swamped O'Connor's Machine 18-7.

For the Warren Midgets Holcomb threw a two-hitter and Lucia scored a round-tripper as Struthers whipped Siebert's 26-0.

At Sheffield Wednesday night the Style Shop scored three runs in the sixth inning to break a scoreless pitching duel between winning hurler Larry Lawton and Beaver Gross of the County club. The final score, 3-0. The record of the Style Shop for the season is 6-7.

Betts scored two Junior League victories, the latest a 9-2 triumph over Youngsville Wednesday night. The win bolstered the team's record to 12-3. Harrison was the winning pitcher and was helped at the plate by Hannold's homer and Creola's triple and double.

GOLF WAS OUTLAWED in Scotland back in 1457 because the archers were losing their touch. The weapons on which the nation depended for defense were being set aside for mashies and midirons. Gunpowder saved the game.

AN EXHIBITION of top golf will be seen on the Moon Brook course next Sunday. Art Wall, Arnold Palmer, big name professionals, and Toby Lyons, the host pro, will match shots, accompanied by Ben Bishop, Moon Brook amateur, who recently shot a new course record 66 on the Jamestown lay-out. A clinic will be held at 1 p. m., followed by the match.

JULY HANDICAP

The CVCC ladies are shooting into the finals of their July handicap tournament. Carol Blackman will meet the winner of the Ellie Voigt vs. Mary Keller match in the first division. Betty Marymont plays the winner of Dorothy Yerg vs. Merle Donaldson in the second flight. Charlotte Calderwood and Sally Ganno play in the third, and Roberta Wildblood plays either Marg Larson or Barbara DeFrees in the fourth.

CVCC MEN

John Carter got past nine holes with only twelve putts to lead the first flight CVCC golfers in their weekly special. Pete Juliano and Dick Krapfel had 38's to tie for low gross.

Anne Blackman smashed out another low one this week, posting an 85 to lead the tournament competition yesterday. Low net action saw Rose Juliano and Helen Culbertson finishing first and second in the first division. Betty Mary-mont and Doris Hamilton topped the second. Kay Walker and Sally Ganno tied in the third, with Charlotte Calderwood second. In the fourth division, Marg Larson and Evelyn Dahler were the winners.

The special event counted only the scores on the par three holes. Mary Keller led the first division. Mid Angove and Betty Marymont the second. Sally Ganno and Jane Frantz in the third, and Marg Larson the fourth.

Next week's tournament will be Fred Lindstrom Day. The club pro will fire a score at which the girls will shoot with the help of handicaps.

In other matches: Observer 6-1/2, Community Discount, 5-1/2; Sylvania Two, 5-1/2, DeLuxe, -1-1/2; Struthers, 6, Avenue, 2; Solar, 8, Loranger, 0.

Joe Scalise led the scoring with a 37. Bob Blair and Dr. Sedwick posted 38's, and at 39 were Dale Hillard, Joe Brindis, Skip Morine, Jack Clarkson, and Hal Bright.

OUTDOORS

NUSUAL KILL
There are some animals and birds which you are not apt to find among those killed by cars on the highway. This is the crow, a wise old bird whose tendency is not to be cozy with man.

But the rash of animal casualties sparked by strewed remains on the roads are attracting the black ones along the pathway of cars and we have come very close to getting a crow or two when their estimate of our seed was a little off.

Last week we note that someone else made it. On the highway was one of the big blacks where a car had got to him in solid fashion before his slow rise could lift him far enough off the ground.

MORE HUNTERS ET AL

George Gallup reports that hunting rates fifth among participation sports in the United States. About sixteen per cent of the adult population hunts at least once a year.

This compares with swimming which is number one and occupies the leisure hours of about a third of our adult population. The percentage among the young people would be even higher.

The difference is much greater than that because the swimmers go out many days, and many of them swim the year around. A big share of the hunters find only a day or two for their sport.

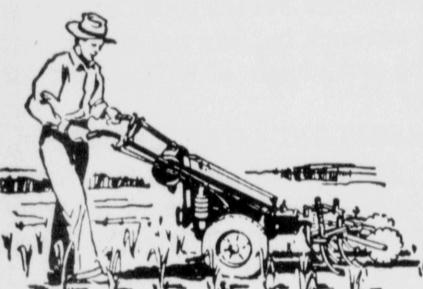

Another sign of increased interest in participation sports is the number of women who have taken up shooting since the last war. The gun companies find their weapons going to a larger number of ladies every year, as the fair ones find fun on the range and in the hunting areas.

While major league baseball attendance has dropped 16 per cent in the past ten years, and minor league attendance has dropped 23 per cent, hunting licenses have gone up 29 per cent, and fishing licenses have climbed 38 per cent.

Outboard motor sales have zoomed 59 per cent and station wagon sales are away up there at a 300 per cent increase. Convertibles now are becoming common as people learn to live with them and find their many advantages in addition to the pleasure of motoring which can be greatly enhanced in this kind of travel.

We believe some of these increases will level off as those with extra hours for fun turn from the natural pursuits of their younger years to the many sports that are available. But the figures will remain high, and some, such as boating, will continue to climb rapidly.

FEAR THE OUTDOORS?

The current release of the Pennsylvania Game Commission has a bit of common sense in it concerning some of the common fears of those who do not venture into the "wilds". Here it is:

There are persons who would like to spend more time in the out-of-doors in the warm months. But they deprive themselves of the pleasure because they abhor flies and mosquitoes, burn under the direct rays of the summer sun, get sick while in a boat or fear venomous snakes and poison plants. Usually, the apprehensions are overcome through understanding, and modern science has provided preventives that fend off pesky insects. Therefore there is little reason for most humans to miss otherwise desirable boat rides, camping trips, hikes or fishing excursions that help to make life more worthwhile.

Proper clothing will protect the skin from reasonable exposure, and suntan lotions are a great help to the person who burns easily. One who becomes seasick can purchase "insurance" from a drug store. Available in tablet form are seasickness preventives while one is on rolling or rough waters. And new-type repellents, in spray, liquid or stick form offer almost complete protection from pesky flies, chiggers and mosquitoes.

Learning the appearance of poison ivy and other plants for which a person has an allergy, then avoiding them, largely removes the poison plant bugaboo. There are many kinds of snakes in Pennsylvania but only the rattlers and the copperhead are venomous. They are rarely met by

What's This?

Above are shown some censored remarks of an explosive nature, voiced by an individual usually quite pleasant . . . Did he suddenly go mad, you ask? . . . No, but the heat got the best of him. Which reminds us—

Whenever you feel out-of sorts or overwrought because of fretful summer weather, don't take it out on family and friends . . . Just hop into a lukewarm bath followed by a quick cold splash . . . and bathe away the "boiling point".

Governor Long could go a long way toward proving he is not crazy by not acting that way.

ALTHOUGH hampered by bad weather the annual Warren Aviation Club's dance, breakfast and air fair went off as scheduled.

Festivities started Saturday night when a nice crowd turned out for the dance in the Warren Airport hangar.

The next morning the breakfast was carried through even though only two visiting planes of the expected 45 were able to fly in.

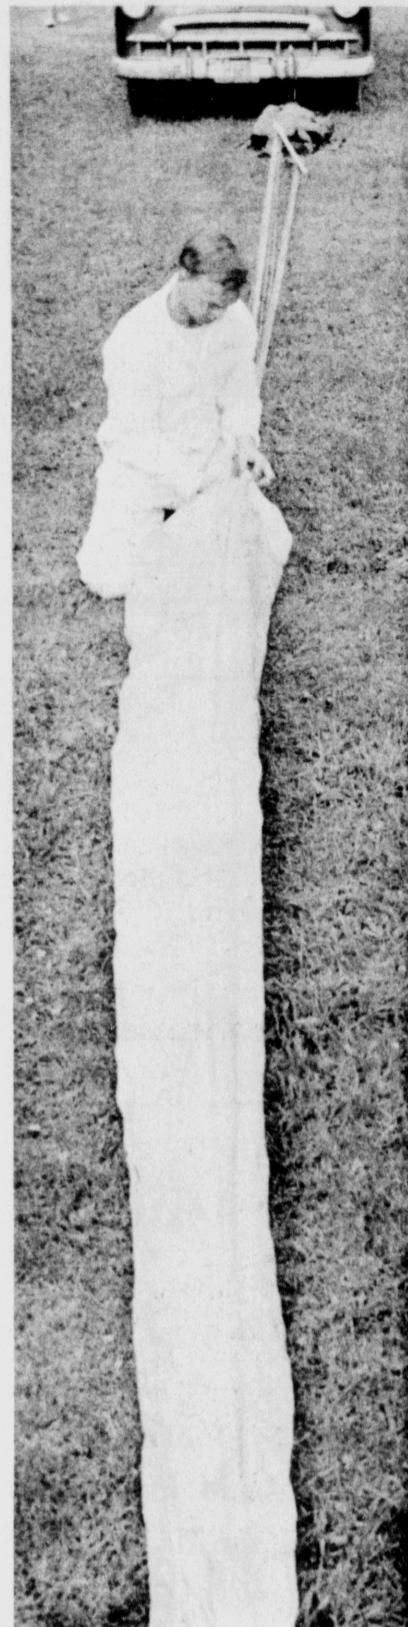

As viewed in the photo above, many spectators took advantage of visiting the local port Sunday to look over what was on hand and to view a parachute jump.

AT THE FLY-IN BREAKFAST... those who were up early.

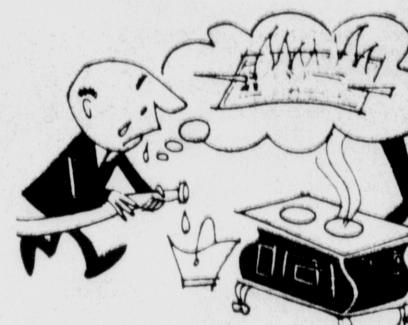

VISITORS at the airport Sunday saw Rudy Algren, a member of the Jamestown Skydivers, make his 99th and 100th parachute jump.

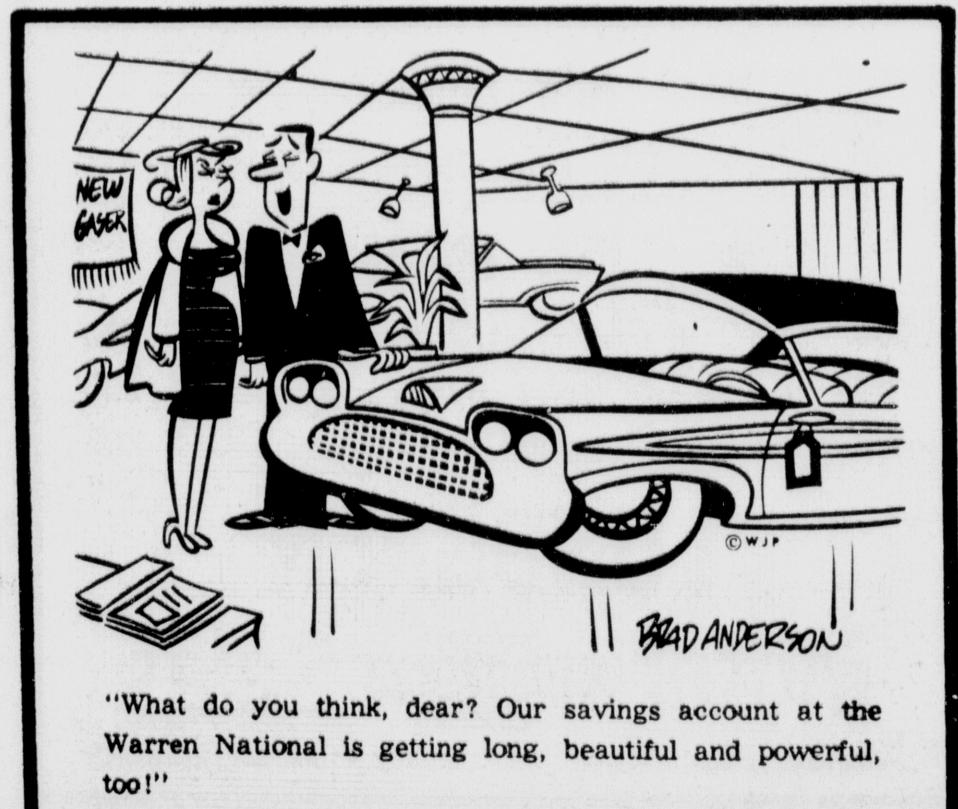

SKYDIVER ALGREN demonstrates how to pack a chute.

A long-time Bond-holder came home one Christmas Eve to discover that he had the richest-looking Christmas tree in town. His kids had torn up all his pretty green Bonds and used them for ornaments—"just like the paper ornaments they made in school." His peace of mind was restored—and his children taken off the hook—when he got his Bonds replaced, with their original issue dates.

One fellow hid his cash and Bonds in a coal-burning stove. Came the first frosty morning of Fall—he hurriedly fired up the stove—and sent his savings up in smoke. Unfortunately there was no way to replace the cremated cash. But he got every one of his Bonds back promptly. From this sad experience he says he learned two important lessons: 1. Bonds are safer than cash; 2. Almost any place is safer to keep them than a coal-burning stove.

"What do you think, dear? Our savings account at the Warren National is getting long, beautiful and powerful, too!"
